

Children's Ministry

"It is our aim to bring Joy to little Children. . . ."

Covenant of Green's Farms Congregational Church

The Congregational Church of Green's Farms

Church School at GFC

Why are we so passionate about Sunday School? Because we want to welcome children into an environment where they can feel God's love; to introduce them to the stories of the Bible; and to encourage every child to develop a personal relationship with God.

We know that children learn best and retain what they learn longer when they are immersed in a fully interactive environment. At Green's Farms Church, children and their families are active and involved in their lessons through a variety of activities—drama, art, music, movement, games, nature, gardening, cooking—designed to reach many different kinds of learners.

When children are encouraged to learn by using their own particular gifts, they come to know God and grow in faith in a way that makes sense to them and ultimately informs every aspect of their lives.

Sunday Mornings at Green's Farms Church

- Preschool through kindergarten in age appropriate classrooms, led by trained volunteers and directed by an experienced preschool teacher
- Grade 1-5 rotate to different classrooms that become theaters, kitchens, garden centers, painting studios, etc., led by trained volunteers or subject matter experts under the guidance of professional theological staff.

Volunteers

Children's Ministry at Green's Farms Church is dynamic because so many members of the congregation give their time and talents on Sunday mornings. Some are teachers who share their own special interests with the students. Others act as class "shepherds", make costumes, help organize games or design an art project. The adult volunteers get so caught up in the spirit that they find they get as much from their volunteer experience as they give to the children.

If you have special skills, your expertise is welcome, but no special skills are required. If you love working with children and are willing to help them on their faith journey, you are invited to participate.
